

Kerry Taylor has been the Executive Director of the Pay It Forward Foundation since December of 2008. Her background is in public administration, where she held various positions over a 16 year career in three California counties. Her goal with her first job out of college, as a VISTA Volunteer, was to change the world in a big way. Somehow that got sidetracked with the demands of the county administrative jobs she held. She marvels that this long set aside dream came full circle when she started to work for PIFF. She is happy to use her administrative and financial management skills to help further the goals of the Foundation. She lives in San Luis Obispo, California.
